Dear Henry

After nearly 13 years of suffering with migraine attacks, I decided to visit the headache clinic in February 2007 as the last resort. A wake up call was when I was admitted in the hospital in December 2006 for a week. I had to rely on very strong medication and it was unbearable.

On my first visit to the headache clinic, several tests were conducted to determine the underlying causes of my migraine attacks. A mouth plate was then made and ever since, I have never had any attacks. I lost my mouth plate in the last 3 months and I have never had any attacks.

Thank you very much to your friendly and understanding staff.
